

50 years old, married, two children, Professional Journalist (Italian Order of Journalists since 1992), Head of FIGC (Italian Football Federation) Communications Dept. and Head of Italy National Football Teams' Media Dept. since October 2014.

During this time, he has directed Media activities and operations with the National team in 101 matches in UEFA European Qualifiers, UEFA EURO 2016 and 2020, UEFA Nations League. In the last 3 years, he has been part of “UEFA NAs Communications Steering Group”; he also coordinated the Women's NT Media activities at the UEFA Women's EURO England 2022.

In 2014, he obtained the Certificate of Advanced Studies (CAS) in Football Management promoted by the University of Lausanne and UEFA (The FA edition).

His experience in FIGC Media Office began in 2009, working as Media Operation Manager in the Home National Team's matches, as Media Officer in Women's and Youth National teams; he was also part of the team in charge of the UEFA Euro 2016 bid dossier (Italy) and UEFA Euro 2020 bid dossier (Roma host city).

Before joining FIGC, he has directed the LND - National Amateur Football League's Press Office from 2003 to 2009 after having held the same position at the Lazio Regional Committee of such League from 1992 to 2003.

After graduating with 60/60 cum laude from the “Liceo Classico Collegio Nazareno” (1992), he began his career as football reporter for newspaper and TV Channels in Rome. He has carried out military service as Italian Army's Officer at the Infantry School from 1993 to 1994.